

The Kitchen at Hakloa

Edvard Munch

1881 certain

Pencil

Wove paper. 167 × 234 × 0,14 mm (h × b × t)

The inscription in the lower left corner shows the date 1881, later corrected to 1882. But according to Munch's diary, he and a few friends had an extended stay at Hakloa in the forest north of Oslo (Nordmarka) in summer 1881. "We had a wonderful time at Hakloa, far better than expected. The people there, a husband, wife and three pretty girls were very nice and the service was good. After the others returned home Sørensen and I remained another week, to continue painting, [but] as it mostly rained it didn't result in much." We do know of one painting from that trip to Hakloa (Woll M 18), in addition to several drawings.

Interior of the kitchen at Hakloa. / Edv. Munch 1881 [pen, lower left] //
Hakloa [pencil, lower middle]
The Munch Museum, ref. MM.T.02515-recto

Terms

Hakloa; Woman; Boy; Table; Window; Full-length figure; Seated; Standing; Room; Chair